

An architectural rendering of a residential development. The scene features a large, multi-story brick building with a red-tiled roof and white window frames. The building is set back from a road by a low brick wall. A paved road with white lane markings runs across the foreground. A black car is parked on the right side of the road, and a person is walking on the sidewalk. In the background, more brick buildings and a central entrance with a small tower are visible under a clear blue sky with light clouds.
